DAY 6

in the deep.

What if we haven't even been born yet?

"What if this life is just a big invisible womb?" Dino's delerious thoughts emerge from his sore mouth, "A womb where we are to be nurtured and then birthed into the real world.

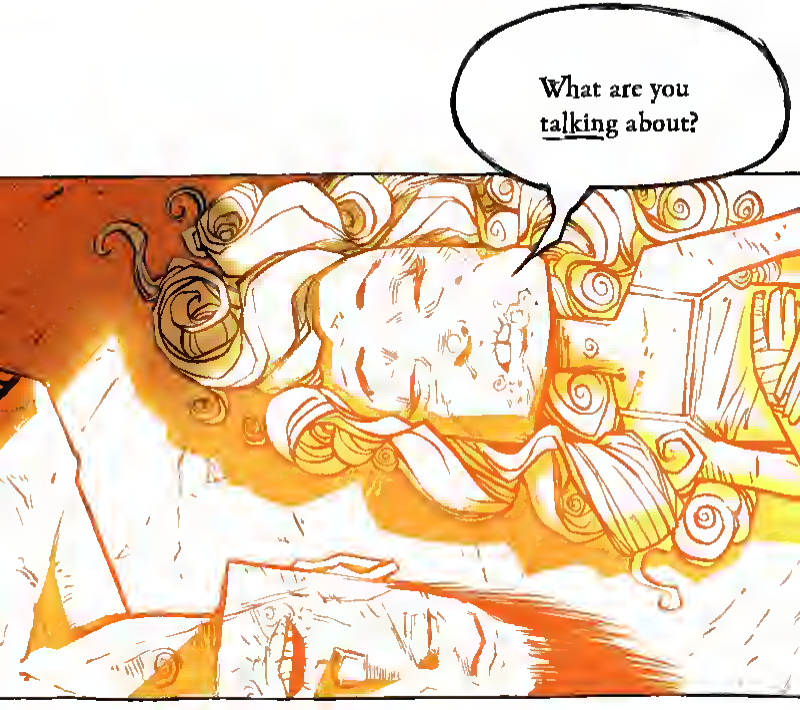
"An invisible world to us. I can almost touch it now. I hear muffled sounds that cannot be real but... somehow I know they are.

"Pounding.

Humming."

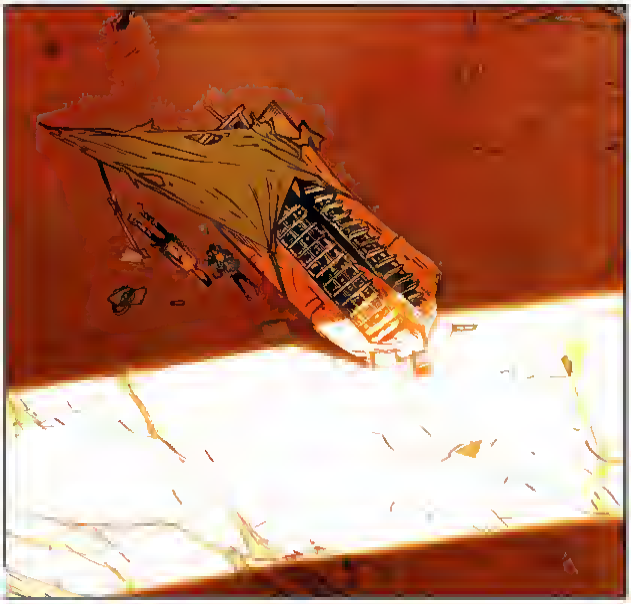
Dino continues his morbid analogy but Vonna is not listening, "A fetus needs the nutrients of the womb or it will die before birth. Like a fetus, have we been tricked into thinking this is the final stage of our existence?

"Our eyes will finally be able to see clearly when we are finally 'born' — FREED from this womb of flesh."



What are you talking about?

It's humming.



"It can't be all my head."
